New Work – getting you ready for the working world of tomorrow

Berlitz[®]

Shaping New Work Methods – Together

The extremely dynamic processes related to the digitalization of today's workplace are currently one of the greatest challenges impacting not only how we work, but also society as a whole. Without question, it takes courage to engage with these challenges, to face them with an open mind, and to see them as an opportunity. I know this from personal experience – because at Berlitz, learning never stops.

That is why it's all the more important for us to actively support you as you embark on this transformation. It is our goal to get you ready for the workplace of tomorrow. So we are leading by example and have further aligned our training offering with the agile requirements of the present age. For example, discover our new interactive self-study programs and live online formats taught remotely by Berlitz instructors. These harmonize perfectly with the remote and mobile work being done by your company's employees and offer even more flexibility for your learning and development strategy.

Since 2000, our portfolio has already included training courses that are conducted entirely virtually – and our online course offering has grown steadily since then. You can trust in our experience and profit from our expertise. As your training partner, we also work with you to develop tailored solutions for hybrid learning that combine our digital courses with traditional face-to-face instruction.

Yet it is not only in form, but also in substance, that we are adopting a more digital approach in our current course catalog. This is because the digital transformation of the workplace affects not only professional development, but also the overall work processes and human resources development within companies – representing a learning process not only for employees, but also for leaders and the companies themselves. Flexible solutions are called for, which is why many of our new business seminars focus on the topic of New Work.

I'd like to conclude with a thought that is especially important to me: The way we will work and learn in the future will doubtless be digital. However, going forward there will also still be language courses, intercultural training, and soft-skill seminars that are held in person. At Berlitz, these two formats go hand in hand, rather than simply existing side by side – and that is what makes our programs particularly flexible. This variety of options gives you tremendous opportunities for new learning experiences and achievements. Which is why we invite you to step into this new world with us.

We hope you enjoy exploring our catalog.

Berlitz stands for diversity and equal opportunities.

With this in mind, we have made every effort to use gender-neutral language in this catalog.

DZ BANK Case Study: Concept for Virtual Training

Professional development in unfamiliar circumstances

The pandemic has turned vast swathes of our familiar work life upside-down – the physical has become virtual; our daily office routines have been replaced by remote working. DZ BANK also had to shift its in-house professional development programs to online training almost overnight.

The challenge

Providing 140 employees from the GenoBanks/Network division, which looks after approximately 840 regional cooperative banks, with expert insights into agile working methods – all within a very short period of time.

The objective

The objective was to provide an overview of various agile methods and systematically identify the advantages in order to motivate and empower the employees to also work more intensively with these methods.

In Berlitz, DZ BANK found a competent partner who accomplished the job in a matter of weeks. Needless to say, this included individual solutions that were tailored directly to DZ BANK's requirements.

The solution

- Customized workshop entitled “Insights into the new workplace: the VUCA world, agility, and customer centricity”
- Interactive training sessions in small groups combined with video lectures to reinforce acquired knowledge
- Exercises on the seminar topic and testing of the technical setup before training started to ensure efficient learning from the very beginning
- Training conducted in 10 groups, each comprising 14 participants

The feedback

“Planning, implementation, knowledge transfer – everything worked superbly,” reported a project manager at DZ BANK. “We were particularly pleased with the way Berlitz made the training in this virtual format so interactive. From the trainer's assessment and the relevance of the content to the clear and professional delivery – everyone was extremely satisfied.”

About DZ BANK

DZ BANK is the second-largest commercial bank in Germany and the umbrella institution for the Volksbanken Raiffeisenbanken Cooperative Financial Network.

It is the central bank for all of the approximately 840 cooperative banks in Germany and part of the Cooperative Financial Network (Genossenschaftliche FinanzGruppe), which employs around 170,000 people and has consolidated total assets of around 1.4 billion euros.

With almost 23 million shareholders, the Cooperative Financial Network is Germany's largest business organization in terms of membership. The DZ BANK. Initiativbank supports the operations of independent local cooperative banks with the aim of strengthening their competitive positions. The DZ BANK Group includes such well-known players as the Schwäbisch Hall building society and the R+V Versicherung insurance group.

The World of Business Seminars

Business excellence for your future success

Across the globe the way we work and learn has changed a lot – especially in response to the particular challenges of the recent past – and it is still in a state of transition. In terms of media, the world seems to have become smaller through virtual working, increased networking and more intensive use of conference tools and other channels. At the same time, the situation has greatly limited direct human contact, travel, and in-person interactions.

For situations such as this, which will also continue to leave a mark on the future due to the new options that have emerged, we at Berlitz have created learning and teaching structures adapted to the changed requirements of our customers. This includes flexible learning concepts that are not tied to a specific time – or, above all, location – which can be carried out by instructors or as e-learning in a virtual environment and are thus perfectly tailored to your needs. But we will also continue to offer you traditional instructor-led, classroom-based programs, because direct contact and interaction with our participants is as important to us as it is to our instructors and continues to represent an excellent alternative to digital learning.

Our seminar portfolio is remarkable for its sheer variety: from relevant aspects of global collaboration and New Work to the key requirements of traditional work methods; from agile methods to workplace basics. And we have grouped all of these topics into thematic learning clusters for you. This is how we help you be perfectly prepared for the workplace of today and tomorrow.

All continuing education courses can be found starting on page 68.

- Certification as a Cultural Orientations Practitioner® based on the Cultural Orientations Approach™ (COA™) and the Cultural Orientations Model™ (COM™)

For more information on selected business instructors, please turn to pages 118 and 119.

The Berlitz Seminar Portfolio

Continuing education exactly the way you want it – face-to-face or virtual

At Berlitz, you will always find the right training format for your needs. Simply select from the following successful formats: face-to-face instruction at the location of your choice, virtual courses, e-learning – or the best continuing education mix with our blended-learning options.

Our seminar topics can usually be booked as face-to-face and virtual courses for your company, are available worldwide, and can be combined with other offers and conducted in many languages.

In-house seminars: Single- or multi-day continuing education courses

You decide on the topics, dates, and instruction format (in-person or virtual seminar). Our in-house seminars last a day or longer, depending on how much depth you prefer. All our in-house seminars can be conducted in English upon request. Our corporate customer advisors and training development team will be happy to discuss your needs and advise you on seminar concepts. Learning success is further boosted by the use of case studies and specialist terminology from your organization.

In-house seminars: Half-day workshops

Many of our seminar topics are available as half-day intensive courses, which can be taught in-person or online. They offer an ideal way to provide fresh momentum, boost motivation, and work your way into a complex topic. The content is aimed primarily at actual business practices and can be applied on the job right away.

Open-enrollment seminar program: Half-day virtual courses

Perfect for those looking to enroll individually. Our open-enrollment virtual half-day seminars are short, concise, and interactive – and teach the essentials about relevant topics. This is where you can exchange ideas with people from other companies and in different functions, sometimes even internationally.

Organizational development: When your company is facing complex changes

We firmly believe that an organization can only change when leaders and employees are also on board. This is where our concepts for organizational development and the fostering of a learning organization come into play. Organizational development is a planned, long-term development and change process that extends throughout the entire organization. We will be happy to put together a tailored action plan to advise and guide your company through the change process. For more information, please turn to page 108.

Coaching: Reach your personal goals

Working with a coach in a one-on-one dialog helps you reflect on your questions, develop new points of view, gain a clear perspective, mobilize new resources, and be well prepared for an important situation or new role. It also provides you with a safe space to sound out new plans of action. An overview of situations and target groups that can benefit from our coaching can be found on page 109.

E-Learning: Virtual instruction at your own pace

When employees need to work on special, defined learning content independently and remotely, e-learning is the training format of choice. Take advantage of the Cultural Navigator®, our intercultural learning platform, or the e-learning courses offered by our business partner Pink University. A detailed description of our intercultural learning platform can be found starting on page 110. More information on the e-learning courses with video lectures can be found on page 115.

Berlitz blended-learning seminars: Modern and flexible hybrid learning

Our virtual solution is particularly flexible and intensive while still maintaining a high level of focus and engagement through the use of well-structured learning modules. In this format, we combine our compact virtual half-day seminars with e-learning. Our modules are learning nuggets that are efficient, flexible, quickly available, and particularly easy to integrate into your daily work routine. More information and three sample learning modules can be found starting on page 116.

Three Questions For...

An Interview with Jutta Markhof, Director of Berlitz Seminars, EMEA

How did continuing education change in 2021 and how is Berlitz addressing these changes?

Concepts for learning that are not tied to a specific time or location have been in demand for years and are an established part of the Berlitz portfolio. However, the pandemic also acted as a catalyst here. Continuing education in a virtual environment and blended-learning formats are now even more in the spotlight – as is self-directed learning, which can include video lectures. We've adapted to this and are pursuing a very clear objective with our current course program: Offering companies training that can be incorporated flexibly into daily work routines and provides practical support in moments of need.

And in terms of content? What topics are currently in demand?

We've worked closely with our customers to identify many areas that are currently important to companies. The key questions are: What content needs to be learned so that people can better cope with the changed circumstances? And how can a new, forward-looking learning culture be built within the company on this foundation? Key competencies that are now being sought primarily relate to the areas of New Leadership, New Work, and global and virtual collaboration. We have expanded our training portfolio accordingly and can adapt the content to meet companies' specific requirements.

What do you see as the future of continuing education?

The future of learning is digital and flexible. But this doesn't mean instruction will not also be offered on site in a seminar room as well. The pandemic has also made many customers aware of how valuable physical proximity and a strong feel-good aspect are during seminars. I'm thinking, for example, of team development or of project teams in their early phases – these are cases where a shared experience is very conducive to sustainable learning. I also see leadership training returning to a physical space going forward.

We at Berlitz already cover both aspects and will continue to do so in the future, combining them flexibly whenever it makes sense.

Berlitz International Professional Placement Services

Work with us to find the best people to fill your job openings

Germany is an attractive country for immigration and is experiencing a lack of qualified professionals and apprentices in almost every sector. The German Federal Government is aware of this problem and has improved immigration opportunities for skilled workers from countries outside the EU (third countries) by passing the Immigration Act for Skilled Workers (FEG). This law, which has been in force since March 1, 2020, is now well established and has proven effective.

Berlitz helps you find the right skilled personnel in other countries, give them language and intercultural training, and integrate them successfully into your company. To do this, we collaborate with numerous trade associations and partners to offer a professional service from a single source.

The Berlitz Method®

Experience that keeps up with the times

The Berlitz Method® has been at the heart of all Berlitz language instruction since 1878, and has gained worldwide popularity for its effectiveness in achieving learning goals. It has been continuously developed and perfected in line with the latest linguistic research. Today, for instance, our courses include an individual needs analysis, digital course materials, and Live Online and e-learning options.

You always learn a new language in a natural fashion. This means that in your Berlitz course, you'll only speak and hear your target language – just as authentic and vibrant as a stay in the country where it is spoken. Instruction always centers on your experience, needs, and language-learning goals.

Has this piqued your interest? We answer all the most important questions about the Berlitz Method® below. But it's even better to experience its many advantages for yourself in a language course.

What will my language course focus on?

Listening, reading, writing, and speaking. At Berlitz, you will always practice all four language skill areas. Reading and writing are actively integrated into the lessons so that the course resembles a workshop, with a focus on active speaking. Communication takes place not only with your instructor, but also with the other participants – entirely in the target language, of course. The language is taught through simulations and role-playing of real-life situations.

How is my course structured?

The learning process is divided into several phases. You'll start with controlled practice phases in which you are corrected more frequently by your instructor so you can work on your pronunciation and accuracy. In the next phases, the aim is to put what you have learned into practice and to work on speaking freely. During this time, the instructor does not interrupt you with corrections, but instead offers feedback after the activity has been completed. This sort of practice in speaking freely – even with mistakes – is important for improving your fluency while at the same time breaking down any inhibitions about speaking the foreign language.

How do I learn grammar at Berlitz?

If you want to speak a language, you don't necessarily have to learn all the grammar rules by heart – what's important is using them correctly when you talk. This is why you will always practice grammar in a linguistic and topic-specific context and internalize what you have learned through structured application.

How do I make the greatest amount of progress? The three most valuable tips we can give you are:

- Make sure you remain positive and stay persistent in your goal of perfecting your language skills
- Attend your course regularly and participate actively
- Don't be afraid to make mistakes – it's the only way you'll learn

Berlitz Levels

Standard definitions for language skills

The Council of Europe's Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR) defines different levels of language proficiency to make the learning of languages and evaluation of language skills more transparent and easier to compare. These CEFR levels correspond to the ten Berlitz levels.

Berlitz Level 1/CEFR A1: Your language skills are sufficient to make yourself understood with questions and answers in simple everyday situations.

Berlitz Level 2/CEFR A2.1: You possess basic skills in the language and can conduct simple conversations in at least one tense.

Berlitz Level 3/CEFR A2.2: You can follow the gist of a conversation on familiar subjects. You can initiate, maintain, and end a conversation and discuss a range of topics.

Berlitz Level 4/CEFR A2.3: You can understand information on familiar subjects in the relevant context and can hold a conversation on a range of general subjects.

Berlitz Level 5/CEFR B1.1: You can hold a conversation and describe things in a coherent manner. You can ask and respond to questions in the workplace. You can understand all sentence structures.

Berlitz Level 6/CEFR B1.2: You can communicate effortlessly in a variety of professional and personal situations using a variety of expressions.

Berlitz Level 7/CEFR B1.3: You can express views and defend them in discussions. You can handle challenging professional situations and also use the language in complex contexts.

Berlitz Level 8/CEFR B2.1: You can communicate efficiently and correctly in challenging activities and situations and participate in discussions in all environments. You can express yourself in a nuanced manner.

Berlitz Level 9/CEFR B2.2: You can communicate in detail and use targeted expressions to add nuance to discussions on complex topics.

Berlitz Level 10/CEFR C1/C2: You can express yourself at an extremely high linguistic level, virtually on a par with a native speaker.

Berlitz Tests for the Assessment of Language Skills

We offer three general language tests to help you determine which Berlitz language program is right for you. The tests take place before you start language instruction, so we can recommend the perfect course for you based on your current proficiency level.

Language Audit for Virtual Training

Lasting around 30 minutes, this online multiple-choice test is used for placement and needs analysis (questions about learning goals and professional fields) for our Connect program and individual instruction by phone/Skype. It tests knowledge of English, French, Spanish, or German; one of the 14 available instruction languages can be selected in advance. A re-test at the end of the course documents learning progress.

Oral Placement Test

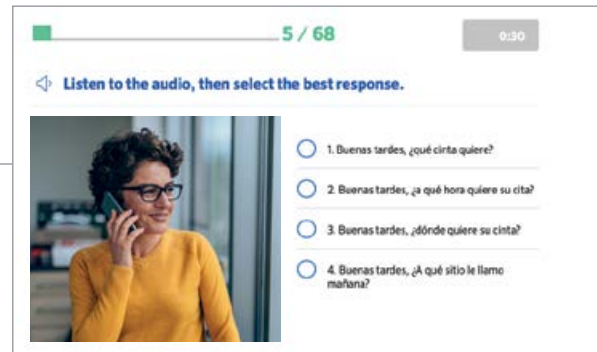

Our oral placement test is available for all languages and can be conducted at a Berlitz Center, on company premises, or by phone. The oral placement test, which takes approximately 15 minutes, can also be combined with the online placement test described above.

Online Placement Test

This flexible online test is multiple-choice and is excellent for a quick and simple determination of proficiency level. It provides a valid evaluation of listening and reading skills in around 35 minutes. The test is available for English, French, Italian, Spanish, and German, with instructions available in 22 languages. The placement results are sent immediately by email. Companies also have different customization options, for example by adding their logo to the registration page. The entire structure of the test is very straightforward:

Written and audio questions

Intercultural Competence

Because it's not just what you say, but how you say it

Speaking the same language as the person sitting across from you is a good start. But cultural understanding takes you a step further, letting you communicate respectfully and effectively. It has been shown that culturally aware teams are more able to build sincere and trusting relationships with customers, avoid misunderstandings, and work successfully across national boundaries.

That's why Berlitz combines languages with intercultural understanding – not only as an integral part of every Berlitz language course, but also through additional services that you can book with us, all from a single source.

Build intercultural expertise

Integrated with language instruction

Short, topic-related lessons during and between the language-learning sessions create a deeper understanding of intercultural requirements.

Supplemental e-learning or seminar

Our Cultural Navigator® e-learning platform (see description starting on page 110) provides a fast-track introduction to working with people of different cultures. Our Berlitz seminars for intercultural skills (starting on page 70) also cover the most important topics related to intercultural collaboration.

Total Immersion® Intensive Individual Instruction

Maximum progress in the shortest time possible

For the most rapid language progress possible, Berlitz worked with the psychology institute at McGill University in Montreal to develop a special program: Total Immersion®. The concept is based on regular individual instruction, made significantly more effective by more hours of instruction and greater intensity. The goal is to be able to conduct advanced conversations in the new language after just a few weeks.

To this end, the course days are clearly structured – typically with individual instruction in the morning, a business lunch with small talk in a real-life environment, periods of independent study, and discussion sessions with two Berlitz instructors.

Concept

- Intensive instruction with 12 daily lessons, 60 sessions per week
- Individually tailored duration of 1 to 6 weeks
- Daily business lunch plus one lesson with two language instructors
- Available at all language levels in all actively spoken languages
- Accurate and confident communication in the foreign language within a few weeks
- Ideal for mastering language challenges swiftly

Three Questions For...

An interview with Tabeah Törner, Berlitz corporate customer advisor

What precisely makes Total Immersion® so effective?

To put it simply, our customers receive a lot of knowledge in a particularly intensive form. With nine hours of language training, the days are highly focused, and the variety of learning elements prevents boredom and ensures that the participant's motivation remains high. After a very short time you start thinking in the target language – and sometimes even dreaming in it, as some participants have told me. This is our goal.

Where does the Total Immersion® program take place?

It is always deliberately held away from the participant's workplace in order to create space and peace and quiet for the foreign language. We offer a pleasant and varied learning environment at the Berlitz Center in question, and lunch is eaten together in one of the nearby restaurants.

Who is the typical participant for this program?

There is no typical participant; we have had customers from every sector and a wide range of positions. What they all have in common is the goal of making rapid and tangible language progress – sometimes as a matter of necessity, because they are going on an international assignment, for example.

What our customers say about Berlitz:

“The Total Immersion® program helped me to get a condensed and intense learning experience which accelerated my confidence and comfort with the German language. The continuity that this experience offers is useful in maintaining focus. I would recommend this to someone who finds it difficult to maintain continuity and focus on German language learning due to work and family reasons, and needs additional confidence in speaking the language.”

Three Questions For...

An interview with Lena Kauth, Executive Assistant at the AZURIT Group

The AZURIT Group operates inpatient facilities and services for the elderly and runs more than 60 retirement and nursing homes throughout Germany. For some years now, the company has been responding to Germany's shortage of skilled nursing staff by recruiting nursing professionals in non-EU countries.

How important is it for your potential nursing employees to learn German, and what level of language proficiency do they have to reach?

Language and gestures (non-verbal communication) are an extremely important part of the job of a geriatric nurse, who can use words and signs to encourage patients, soothe them, or make them laugh. For our foreign staff in particular, good language skills are essential. Language certificates are often required as part of the application for recognizing foreign qualifications. But unfortunately, language certificates are often like school report cards – they do not always say a lot about true proficiency. What matters to us is how well our staff members can actually speak.

What topics are covered in the language classes?

In addition to general job-related language skills, the focus is on communication with doctors, colleagues, and our residents and their families. The primary goal is to break down language barriers and boost communication skills. Speaking makes up a major part of the class time. If you use the language every day, at some point you will master it – it is a kind of learning by doing. We trust the job-related language courses and integration seminars offered by Berlitz because they are based on educationally sound concepts and have achieved excellent results.

What advice do you have for German companies who are experiencing staff shortages and urgently seeking skilled employees?

The shortage of qualified nursing professionals can be felt across Germany. Do not wait for assistance from politicians or employer associations. Recruiting employees abroad, despite the red tape, is one important way of overcoming staff shortages. Get your current staff involved in the process, because they often have contact with potential applicants both in and outside of Germany. Three Questions For...

An interview with Deniz Cooknell, Corporate Sales Director, Europe

In your opinion, who are the open-enrollment group courses in the Berlitz Online Classroom suitable for?

Our open-enrollment group courses are particularly popular among companies who don't have enough participants for an in-house group. Individual employees can get started immediately in an open group.

This training concept is also attractive for people who like to learn in cooperation with others and who want to make rapid progress – because learning in a group is simply more motivating, not to mention a lot of fun!

How do you manage to meet the needs of the individual learners within the group?

The groups never have more than six participants. This keeps the instruction personal and everyone has enough time during the lesson for active speaking. Plus the small number of participants ensures that our instructors can focus on the individual needs of each learner. An additional advantage is that the composition of the group remains the same for the entire course. So participants get to know each other quickly and practice the language in a familiar environment.

How do participants adapt to learning in a virtual space? Do they receive a technical briefing?

Prior to the start of the course, learners are invited to participate in an orientation session. This is also carried out live online, of course, and includes a detailed introduction to the learning platform as well as a technical check. So before the course starts, the participants are already familiar with all the tools.

More than 10 years ago, the first online instruction took place in an open group course.

Over 5,000 participants have already reached their learning goals in an international open group.

More than 600 companies across the globe are booking open group lessons for their employees.

11 languages are on offer today in our open group courses.

The new way
to learn languages

Program components

Berlitz Flex offers you maximum freedom in your language learning – but still provides a clear structure with compact lessons that build on one another. The program components in your learning path offer great variety while focusing on a single goal: building your language skills.

36 self-study lessons

Each of the approximately 60- to 90-minute lessons has a defined learning objective and contains different types of educational activities, such as interactive videos, short exercises, puzzles, and much more.

20 live coaching sessions

Two completed online lessons are always followed by a 25-minute Live Online session with a Berlitz instructor. The schedule can be arranged individually in advance during the program.

36 self-study review lessons

For each self-study lesson, there is the option of doing exercises to review the content. Through this repetition, the lesson is reinforced and long-term recall improved.

4 self-study checkpoints

As you progress along the learning path, regular checkpoints are unlocked to monitor and encourage learning.

4 self-study culture lessons

Because it's not just what you say, but how you say it, the program also includes short intercultural training modules.

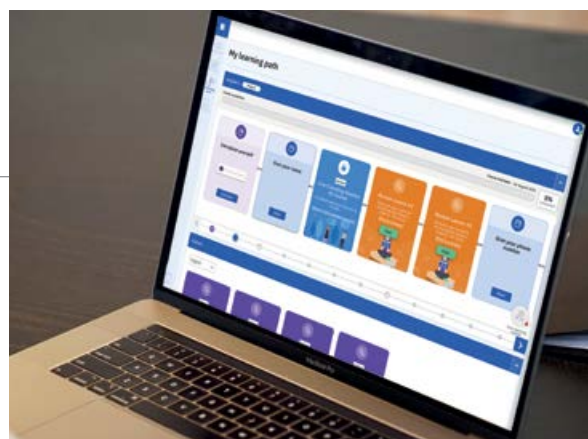

Berlitz Flex: selected features

Smart, modern, and personal: Berlitz Flex is the perfect program for everyone who is looking for a digital solution for learning language skills – but doesn't want to forego the human touch.

Personal learning path

For methodical and structured learning, the individual self-study lessons, live coaching sessions, review lessons, checkpoints, and culture lessons can be worked through in the specified sequence.

Modern speech recognition

What our customers say about Berlitz:

“We opted for the CyberTeachers e-learning platform as the perfect complement to our existing face-to-face language learning, since it allows our employees to work on their language skills independently and according to their individual needs. The CyberTeachers learning tools are especially helpful and are used a lot – for instance to assist our employees with writing emails and letters in the foreign language. Overall, the effective coordination of face-to-face and online language instruction is a major advantage of working with Berlitz.”

Dr. Rüdiger Keller

“We discovered Berlitz Blended Learning and came to value it greatly – especially CyberTeachers and one-on-one instruction over the phone. The course set-up was excellent both for beginners and more advanced participants. Everyone who took part was able to improve their language skills, as clearly demonstrated by a comparison of the initial placement tests and the final tests that all participants took. The phone-based instructors were excellent and adapted to the participants’ individual wishes and abilities. The great support was the icing on the cake.”

Three Questions For...

An interview with Dan Spalding, Center Director, Berlitz London

Who would you particularly recommend Berlitz Study Abroad to?

Basically, anyone who's interested in culture and wants to make rapid progress in a foreign language. After all, there's nothing better than learning a language in the place where it's spoken.

Our Study Abroad program takes the learners out of the classroom and into the real world. Here you can experience language up close in its social and cultural context, and you automatically have to join in the conversation. Berlitz Study Abroad enables learners to have this maximally intensive language experience.

What sets the Berlitz program apart?

Most study abroad programs are designed for large groups and therefore tend to appeal to a younger set of participants. In contrast, the customers who take part in Berlitz Study Abroad are on average 30 years or older and have completely different expectations. So our language courses focus on individual instruction or very small groups of three to five people. This lets us address individual learning needs much more closely. The accompanying cultural program that we recommend to our customers here in London is also adapted to their age.

From accommodation to language instruction, Berlitz Study Abroad offers a lot of options.

How do you identify the best solution for your customers?

It's important for us to know the exact wishes and current language proficiency level of each participant. That's why we always contact them beforehand and provide an in-depth personal consultation – either online or by phone. This helps us understand their needs before the start of the trip and to customize the program.

Language Programs for Kids and Teens

Learn while having fun with foreign languages

Based on sound educational principles, our language programs are designed to get kids and teens actively involved from the outset – through exciting role-playing activities, language games, varied exercises, and age-appropriate topics. Cramming vocabulary and grammar is completely off the table. Specially trained native-speaker Berlitz instructors guide participants through the interesting and engaging language lessons.

Learning languages with Berlitz is not only fun and motivating, but also fosters development, boosts self-confidence, and provides valuable insights into other cultures. Berlitz courses complement the language instruction offered in school and offer optimal preparation for future careers. Now all that's left to decide is how much time your child should spend on language instruction and which format is the best match for your schedule.

All Berlitz language courses are based on a standardized system of language levels that function as coordinated building blocks.

Language Programs at the Berlitz Center

Weekly Courses

In our weekly courses, young people learn their chosen foreign language in regular lessons at their local Berlitz Center, e.g. in classes held once a week and lasting 1.5 hours each. Instruction is geared toward the age of the participants. The youngest are taught using age-appropriate exercises such as singing, drawing, and dancing. Older children learn to enjoy the foreign language through interesting stories and role-playing activities.

Vacation Courses

Kids and teens go to the Berlitz Center in their city for a week during their school vacation and participate in entertaining projects and workshops that immerse them in the foreign language. Depending on the school vacation, classes take place on four or five consecutive days of the week, usually as an intensive morning course. The students are assigned to courses based on their grade level or age. In some Berlitz Centers, we also offer prep courses for the Abitur (German secondary school diploma) English examination.

Individual Instruction

Kids and teens can also benefit from many of the advantages of Berlitz individual instruction – such as when they are facing an important language exam, preparing for a student exchange program or an international assignment with their family, or simply looking to intensively target their foreign language skills. Our native-speaker instructors adapt their lessons to the participants' current level of language proficiency and address their individual needs.

Language Certificates

For teens in particular, internationally recognized language certificates can be very important, e.g. as an admission requirement for international institutions of higher education or for job applications. Berlitz offers a variety of prep courses for such certificates, in both individual and group instruction formats. In many cases it's possible to sit for the examinations right at the Berlitz Center. More information on our language certificates can be found starting on page 56, including options for exam preparation that take place completely online.

Language Programs in a virtual classroom

Live Online Group Courses

It's easy to learn languages from home – our Live Online group courses for 8- to 18-year-olds make it possible. The lessons take place on an online video platform in small groups with a maximum of six participants. Unlike traditional school lessons, the focus of our virtual group courses is on sustained, active communication between the group and the Berlitz instructor as well as between the participants themselves – during the class, only the target language is spoken. Modern course content and cool topics, e.g. based on articles or videos from National Geographic Learning, boost motivation and ensure progress from the very first hour of instruction. Courses are offered for English, French, German, and Spanish.

Live Online Individual Instruction

Berlitz online individual instruction is the first choice for anyone who wants to learn languages in an especially flexible and personalized manner. Here instruction also takes place in a virtual classroom, with the dates and duration arranged together in advance. Our specially trained instructors first assess the young person's language level and then offer individual lessons in line with their age and proficiency level as well as the desired intensity. Rapid learning progress is guaranteed!

What our customers say about Berlitz:

"The language camp concept for apprentices completely won us over. Berlitz was flexible in designing a program tailored to the needs and wishes of our Continental commercial apprentices. The language instruction and free-time activities were well suited to the target group and the native speakers employed by Berlitz did an excellent job."

Elena Beck

"The vacation language camps held on site at our company were an enormous success. The camps offered a variety of activities – from fun English lessons to creative group projects. It was a great experience for everyone – parents and their kids – to 'go to work' together in the mornings and home again in the evenings. We thank the Berlitz team for their outstanding planning and implementation."

Three Questions For...

An interview with Julia Pakravan, Director of Sales, Kids & Teens, Germany

Why are digital skills so important for kids today?

To put it simply, because they’re with us everywhere: when we shop with Apple Pay, in our smart homes with Alexa, in our cars with digital cockpits, and on our smartphones with all their apps. This makes it all the more important for children to learn how to use digital media and data correctly and safely. Of course, digital skills also play a key role in the workplace of today and tomorrow. So parents can already lay the foundation for their children’s future. Besides, learning the logic of programming not only helps students in computer science classes, but in other subjects as well – and beyond.

What do you say to parents who think their kids already spend too much time on their computers or smartphones?

We channel the energy that would otherwise be invested in social media and/or games into meaningful activities. The professional future of the rising generations will depend on their digital literacy, as the last few months in particular have shown us. Which makes it all the more important to master these skills today.

The program has also been available in English since 2021. How did that come about and what has the experience been like so far?

Our courses in English have proven very popular. A lot of programming language terminology comes from English anyway, so it was only logical to take the step of teaching the entire course in English. This also has the positive effect of fostering the development of the children’s language skills.

Intercultural Training for Expatriates

Get set for living and working abroad. Sending employees abroad should be a beneficial experience both for your company and the expatriate. The positive outcomes of a successful international assignment include the optimization of structures through direct insights into local ways of working, the forging of new and important contacts, and the improvement of intercultural collaboration. But international assignments also carry the risk of early termination, which can mean a financial loss for the company. This risk cannot be entirely ruled out by thorough preparation, but it can be minimized. Because to live happily and work effectively in another country, it's important to be as well equipped as possible for this new adventure.

At Berlitz, we are ready to assist your employees as they prepare for their international assignment with our Intercultural Training for Expatriates, which draws on country specialists from our global network of instructors. The training we offer is based on our proven training methods, the Cultural Navigator® (our intercultural learning platform), and our intercultural online analysis tool for exploring personal cultural profiles (the Cultural Orientations Indicator®, or COI®). Berlitz offers you a customized blended-learning package that helps ensure that the relocation will be a success for both your company and your employees.

In our seminars, we help your employees take the first steps toward intercultural competence by learning how to handle local red tape and make new friends, as well as teaching them the most important aspects of doing business in their new region: How do you lead in the new culture? How do teams work there? How do you communicate effectively with stakeholders from different cultures in presentations and meetings? During training, we explore and answer these questions and more.

Features

- Supplemented by our Cultural Navigator® learning platform for a more in-depth look and analysis of individual cultural orientations
- 12 months of unlimited usage of the Cultural Navigator® including learning paths, country information, and expert network
- Spouses and partners can participate in the training at no extra cost
- Business lunch with an instructor (face-to-face instruction)
- Experienced coaches offer your expats a high level of support and help them prepare individually for their international assignments

We would be pleased to put together a tailored coaching package for all family members.

Repatriation Coaching: Support for Expats Returning Home

Welcome home. When your employees return home after an extended period abroad, many things often are no longer as they were. The returnees have gained new experience and internalized new cultural elements and ways of working. At the same time, life and work in their home country has moved on. A certain amount of dissonance is inevitable, and their return and reintegration are often more difficult than anticipated – both professionally and personally.

Our repatriation coaching helps your employees manage their expectations and goals. Our experienced coaches work with them to explore possible challenges, examine their expectations and objectives, and set up a concrete action plan for the period following their return – so the international assignment is also a success after repatriation.

Target group

- Individual employees returning from an assignment abroad
- Employees and their spouses or partners returning from an assignment abroad

Benefits

- Coaching content tailored to your individual needs

Working on International Projects

Intercultural skills for collaborating on projects. Projects that extend across national borders are becoming more and more common, which makes working together in international project teams more and more relevant. Project work in an international environment will only succeed if the project team develops an awareness for intercultural differences and similarities as well as the ability to act globally. This seminar focuses on precisely these competencies.

In addition, our Cultural Navigator® offers you a platform that you can use to prepare to work with international project team members from more than 100 countries. You can first analyze your own cultural predispositions using the Cultural Orientations Indicator®, and then compare them with those of other cultures.

Interview: Relocation in Transition

When it comes to relocation, Sylvie Schmit-Verbrugghen is a sought-after expert with more than 30 years of experience. Back in 2004 she founded European Relocation Services in Luxembourg to facilitate people's moves to foreign countries. From handling official paperwork to teaching intercultural soft skills, Sylvie Schmit-Verbrugghen, her multilingual team, and her international network of experts coordinate all the tasks involved in a professional relocation. In an interview, she shares some interesting insights into the world of relocation – and how it's evolving.

Let's start with a look at the recent past: How did the pandemic affect your work?

No business, no travel – that period was an enormous challenge for us. Like so many others, we also had to completely re-invent our jobs. We nevertheless provided our customers with the best possible service throughout – but mostly online and on a very individual level. You could almost call it psychological support. We asked how they were doing and if there was any way we could help. And of course we focused a lot on topics such as the current legal situation, entry restrictions, etc.

And today? How has relocation changed?

We see that a lot of companies have prepared themselves for the era of New Work, e.g. by making more use of remote work. For me as a relocation manager, this also means that many aspects of my work are increasingly taking place in the digital realm. We always try to be creative and develop the best solutions here – if possible without sacrificing the very important personal aspects. I continue to be of the opinion that some matters are better handled in person than remotely.

What impact does this trend toward remote work have on relocation?

It's impossible to generalize. There are fields where it's possible to find digital alternatives to business travel or international assignments. But many jobs require a physical presence on site. Take engineers or architects, for example. You can't just digitally work on building a house in another country. You have to be present, talk to people at the site, and supervise the work. So there are certain fields where professional relocation in the traditional sense will continue to be necessary.

That said, my agency doesn't just take care of the physical relocation. Even if fewer people are working on site, they're still working in international teams. In my opinion, cultural competence and sensitivity toward the other person become even more important in a digital environment. We provide services for our clients in this area as well – not least, by the way, thanks to the outstanding support from Berlitz.

How important are language and intercultural preparation in a relocation, irrespective of remote work or physical presence?

They're absolutely essential. Language skills and cultural training open many doors. Experience clearly shows that if you want to live in a foreign country, you shouldn't just focus on the job that you're doing there. It's more important to also learn the language, to get to know the day-to-day life of the place and how to interact with others. Because only by really immersing yourself in your new life at the location can you also excel at your new job.

Of course you don't learn all that in a single day. I therefore advise employees to seek professional support at an early stage – ideally before the relocation takes place. This means you don't lose any time once you arrive in the new country.

Because the new workplace demands innovative approaches

Our Career Development Programs for Your Leadership Success

For your leaders – local, global, or virtual

Whether your leaders work in traditional or agile structures and manage teams locally, virtually, or globally, today leadership skills are more important than ever. The expectations placed on managers are constantly growing; methodology alone is not enough to see you through. The right attitude, a clear understanding of the role, intercultural competence, motivating vision and communication, charisma, and persuasive powers are all essential to winning the trust of employees and meeting desired objectives.

And it is exactly these factors that we address in our career development programs for managers. In addition to sharpening the instruments and methods in the leadership toolbox, we focus on effective implementation and follow-through to achieve results quickly.

For your new leaders

So many expectations are placed on people new to a leadership role. It's important to gain a foothold quickly in the new function, approach new responsibilities in a structured manner, and know and apply the most relevant management instruments. Not least, new leaders also have to learn how to manage expectations and pressure. It's helpful to have a clear picture of yourself so you can be aware of the impact you have on others.

In our seminars, we focus on clearly defining the role of the new leader, exploring the most important tools for strengthening leadership and supervisory skills, and applying individual feedback to improve your sense of authority.

Let's talk about this!

We will be happy to advise you on the relevant course content for your objectives. We can put together a program tailored to your needs (content, duration, format) – for your managers and your up-and-coming leaders.

Coaching Tools for Leaders

Help your employees be their best. Leaders who decide not only to supervise their employees, but to coach them, have their career development in mind. Such leaders help their people help themselves without relieving employees or teams of responsibility for their actions or pursuing their own interests. In this process, they focus on employees' resources with the aim of mobilizing individual talents and encouraging employees to achieve defined objectives independently. This requires interpersonal and communication skills, not to mention methodological know-how. In our seminar, you will learn how to combine your role as a manager with that of a coach for more effective leadership.

What our customers say about Berlitz:

“As a science and technology firm, at Merck we attach great importance to providing our employees with a working environment that empowers them to contribute to their full potential. Diverse teams who work in an inclusive environment are more successful – especially when it comes to developing creative ideas into genuine innovations. To us, an inclusive environment means that everyone feels appreciated and respected – regardless of factors such as gender, ethnicity, nationality, religion, sexual orientation, or physical ability.

We decided to offer seminars on ‘unconscious bias’ to ensure our employees are always inclusive in their daily work at Merck and that they make unbiased decisions in a professional context.

And Berlitz is the strong training partner at our side. In a series of seminars specially developed by Berlitz for Merck, participants have a safe space to critically and constructively explore their own thought patterns and experiences, and are sensitized to the experiences of others. The goal of the training is to become more aware of the impacts of possible biases and ways of thinking in the workplace and foster inclusive behavior.

Something we especially value at Merck is the strong customer focus of Berlitz, its highly competent and knowledgeable instructors, and the practical approach of its business seminars. By incorporating international perspectives and in coordination with the Cultural Navigator, the training could be adapted to local requirements. Berlitz gives our employees tools and resources that help them become effective and inclusive members of the Merck team – driving innovation and ensuring our corporate success.”

Managers of today require a much wider repertoire of strategies and methods to keep employees and teams functioning and motivated. In the modern, connected, and smart workplace, management also has to adapt to keep pace with other changes. At the same time, new forms of leadership do not make traditional management completely redundant. Peer Group Advice

Tap into your internal resources. Managers and expert teams often like to seek good advice outside the company. But not only are consultants expensive, but potential within the company is underutilized. In times of rapidly changing markets and higher demands for flexibility placed on both companies and individuals, expectations and workplace culture are moving toward augmenting individual responsibility, increasing self-efficacy, and fostering the exchange of information. In the last case in particular, our thoughts usually turn to digital solutions. But the advantages of human, group solutions are as obvious as they are simple – the collective intelligence of the group draws on its rich store of experience to deliver quick and innovative solutions that are tailored to the situation. Establishing the exchange of information and advice among colleagues can help you unleash your unused potential. Our instructor will assist you in launching this self-directed culture of learning.

Influencing without Authority

Successfully lead your colleagues. Lateral leadership means leading “from the side” and therefore not – as in classic management situations – from the top down. This leadership concept is especially valuable when you work in flat hierarchies, particularly in project teams, and have responsibility for outcomes but no supervisory authority. But as a lateral leader, how can you get people excited about the goals you have set, engage them, and create a productive and appreciative working environment? The secret lies in your own role and attitude. Understanding this, proactively shaping your role, and keeping the mechanisms of lateral leadership in mind are the first steps to successfully leading your colleagues.

On-Point Business Communication

Get right to the point. Communication in the workplace takes multiple and complex forms: presentations, emails, analyses, and reports. It is even more challenging when you have to communicate the information to a variety of target groups. Your goal should be to present the information clearly, concisely, and in an organized manner – while still holding the recipient’s attention. Learn to apply the pyramid principle to structure complex content so it is accessible to your target group – and get straight to the point. Prioritize your key message, support it with convincing arguments, and keep your audience in mind. They’ll get the message – loud and clear.

New! Establishing No-Blame Culture

Foster trust and growth. In a team, everyone makes mistakes that have minor or major repercussions. The question, however, is how the team lead and members deal with mistakes. If mistakes are not allowed to happen or are penalized, intense pressure and a culture of fear quickly develop within the team. However, teams can also benefit from mistakes if they are seen as an opportunity to work together and actively learn from the error. This helps the group gain experience and communicate with each other as equals. Such a positive, no-blame culture requires courage, a constructive attitude toward mistakes, and letting go of the need to be error-free.

This all-day format is a combined seminar and workshop: The seminar focuses on the basics of a healthy no-blame culture. In the workshop, your team works in collaboration with our experts to develop an attitude toward mistakes that is tailored to the needs of your group. Good to know: The seminar can also be booked separately as a half-day event.

New! Team Development

Boost the effectiveness of your team. Regardless of their size and function, teams are complex and challenging systems. Trust, a healthy conflict resolution culture, commitment by all team members, clear responsibilities, and a focus on achieving objectives and results – all these lay the groundwork for a successful team. Teamwork is an integral part of the working world, yet teams don't just automatically function well of their own accord. Teams need to be developed and maintained. We offer your team professional support in its development – defining common team goals, improving communication, or taking a closer look at roles and processes as well as sources of conflict within the team.

Our team development workshops do not have a predefined agenda; rather, our team development experts adapt each workshop specifically to the needs of the team in close consultation with the lead and the members of the team.

Our Expertise in Systemic Organizational Development

A focus on your organizational culture. Companies are highly complex systems. They have their own culture, networks reaching out into many directions, and a multitude of hierarchical levels. But they also have a shared goal: working together effectively and efficiently toward the economic success of the company.

When there are disruptions to this system, systemic organizational development can prove useful – to the company as a whole all the way down to the individual employee. All with the aim of stabilizing and furthering the development of the company. Organizational development assists in this process through long-term intervention strategies that are adapted to the individual needs of each company. Our approach to organizational development is rooted in a systemic view: We understand that every organization is unique, so we offer you tailored solutions that lead to successful development.

Our development consultants are certified in the field of systemic organizational development and have many years of experience in guiding companies through development processes as well as strong methodological, social, and communication skills.

Our Consultants

Daniel Hirschler

“All change begins with contact – and so my professional approach is rooted in a willingness to get involved, to identify what needs to be done, and to work together to find ways to tackle it.

As a trained organizational developer, facilitator, trainer, and process coach, I draw on my life and learning, on my many years of international experience, and on an open-minded approach to the challenges of our time. I am guided by these questions: How do we succeed in changing the way we work together, how do we work together in complex situations, and what defines leadership in such cases?”

Jutta Markhof

“As a systemic organizational developer (DGSF-certified) and trainer, I attach great importance to a holistic view of both the initial situation and the participants. Here I draw on a rich portfolio of systemically effective interventions, through which the participants are able to change and develop attitudes and behavior from within themselves to lasting effect. In my courses, I focus on constant activation of the participants.

Through humor and an appreciative dialog of equals, I encourage the participants to reflect and contribute their own real-world examples.”

Florian Zapp

“Thanks to my extensive experience as an in-house and freelance organizational developer, I know that organizations cannot simply import structures and processes from outside. So as a process coach and sparring partner, I support organizations in the development of individual, lasting solutions. Thanks to my qualifications in coaching, organizational development, LEAN, and QM, I have an eye on your processes and your employees.

I pass on my experience both as a consultant and as a lecturer for systemic organizational development (DGSF certified).”

Individual Coaching

Boost your self-efficacy. Coaching is considered the most effective and valuable form of continuing education. And what makes coaching so successful? The one-on-one working relationship of equals, the professional support for processes, and, in particular, the tight focus on finding solutions and reaching goals. As meta-analyses of recent studies have shown, coaching works.

What is also special about coaching is that it is tailored specifically to the needs and situation of the coachee. In a working relationship based on trust, your coach offers you support by helping with processes. This means that he or she does not suggest direct solutions, but encourages you to re-examine your personal goals, discover new strategies, and develop your own approaches to solving problems. Coaching is always the right instrument when the goal is changing your sphere of influence, exploring new paths, and expanding your scope for action. In precisely such situations, a second, professional, outside opinion is helpful in seeing things from a different angle and re-assessing them.

But how do you find a good coach? And how do you assess their professionalism and effectiveness? As continuing education experts, we can help you make the right choice. We select our coaches based on special quality standards for business coaching. A sound education, many years of experience, a clear understanding of the role of the coach, a strong focus on goals and results, a wide-ranging knowledge of methodology, and a personality with strong integrity and empathy are just some of the important criteria in our selection process.

Are you looking to work on specific topics in your team or management team? Many of our coaches are also happy to work with small groups.

Target group

- Professionals, managers
- Project managers, subproject managers
- Employees at all levels

Benefits

- Develop individual solutions for your specific questions
- Receive support in a relationship of equals
- Gain clarity and (re)activate resources

- Change processes

“It is our aim to offer our employees the training format that best suits them. Berlitz helps us by letting the participants select their own courses – on site, over the phone, or online.”

“In Berlitz, we are pleased to have a reliable and flexible partner at our side. The individual support provided by Berlitz and the broad portfolio of training formats enable us to offer the right learning concept for each of our employees. Efficiency and enjoyment of the training are guaranteed. We were also won over by the highly competent native-speaker instructors. We are looking forward to further collaboration with Berlitz and are convinced that we have found the perfect match for our WEPA language courses.”

Julia Hartzsch
HR Development Business Partner
WEPA Produktion GmbH & Co. KG

“When selecting a partner to work with, we pay attention to top quality – we rely on strong partners. And we found such a strong partner in Berlitz: our collaboration has been marked by a high degree of professionalism, flexibility in terms of learning formats, and solution-oriented advice and coordination. In the Virtual Classroom, we are using a modern and attractive learning format and are keeping our finger on the pulse of the times – for the benefit of our employees.”

Pfeifer & Langen GmbH & Co. KG

“At first we were looking for an entirely online solution for English instruction. Because of renovations, we weren’t able to conduct face-to-face training on our premises. After looking at several service providers, we chose Berlitz. Following a pilot phase, the participants and the HR department were equally impressed with the benefits of the virtual version – functionality, flexibility, and learning progress. Today a lot of people at our company use the platform and apply their new knowledge on the job. The instruction provided by Berlitz boosts employee satisfaction, which helps contribute to employee retention.”
